Retaj Medical Center

Visual brand applications

Photography / visual documentation / brand touchpoints

Project overview

A curated presentation of Retaj Medical Center visual materials, focused on brand touchpoints, printed applications, clinic signage, reception details, and on-site visual consistency.

ROLE

Visual content documentation, brand application review, environmental presentation, and selected photography.

SCOPE

ID badges, business cards, signage, hygiene posters, tissue boxes, bags, ribbons, reception materials, and clinic touchpoints.

Visual language

The strongest direction in this set is the repetition of a clear palette: white surfaces, black marks, gold accents, and clinical light. The result feels polished, calm, and premium without relying on visual noise.

Reception detail

Waiting area tissue

Cup application

Clinic environment

The work becomes more convincing when the identity is seen in the space: front desk, clinic rooms, signage, and patient-facing material. These touchpoints show how the brand behaves in a real environment.

Reception counter

Clinic signage

Treatment room touchpoint

Printed touchpoints

The most useful portfolio angle here is not only design, but application: how the mark and visual system appear across objects people actually hold, see, and use.

Operational signage

The clinic system also includes functional communication: hygiene instructions, safety material, treatment room information, and practical patient-facing graphics. These should be presented as brand consistency, not only decoration.

Hand rub instruction

Fire safety poster

Production details

This section frames the work as a system: branded objects, print-ready details, display material, and environmental mockups. It makes the case stronger than a simple photo archive.

For the website, this project should appear as one clean case: a single cover image that opens the full PDF. Do not split every detail into separate cards.

Retaj Medical Center

quiet visual consistency

A selected case study prepared for portfolio presentation. The emphasis is on clarity, trust, and the practical application of a visual identity across real clinical touchpoints.
